Provide healthcare for the digital age

Ease the transition to EHRs; streamline patient registration and accounting with state-of-the-art document and data capture technology

Features you can really use

Automated data capture

Streamline business processes by automating manual tasks, including pre-sorting and data entry for business-critical documents.

High-quality data output

Ensure accurate business-ready data output with award-winning FlexiCapture software, recognition technologies, and rules-based automated verification methods.

Extensive language support

Process documents in more than 180 languages, including:

- English
- Spanish
- Hindi
- Russian
- Arabic
- Chinese
- Japanese
- Korean
- Vietnamese

Flexible integration and customization

Customize and integrate FlexiCapture with your existing business processes. Use FlexiCapture's full complement of powerful tools, including scripts and a Web Service API, to add custom processing stages or external modules and to build a data capture solution that meets your specific needs.

Integration and customization

Integrate FlexiCapture into your current business processes, connect it with external applications, or customize it using a variety of powerful tools.

Layout development and project setup

- Create machine-readable templates for existing structured documents, such as surveys or application forms, using the built-in Document Definition Editor.
- Use FormDesigner to create new fixed forms, taking advantage of multiple colors, easy-to-use default settings, drag-and-drop multipage support, and more.

Scanning and importing images

Import images from specified locations or as e-mail attachments. You can even set up “hot folders” to automatically import and process data.

OCR, ICR, checkmark, and barcode recognition

Easily recognize typed and handwritten text using award-winning recognition technologies that deliver unprecedented accuracy in multiple languages, barcode formats, and form elements like check-boxes. Powerful image pre-processing functions help improve recognition quality.

Automated data validation

Ensure high quality data and reduce the need for human verification with automated data validation. Validation rules are applied during recognition to increase accuracy.

Data verification

Access FlexiCapture’s data verification interface via any web browser—no preinstalled software required. If you need to rule out the possibility of program or human error, you can require that two operators independently verify your crucial business data.

Data export

Export data to applications, databases, or enterprise repositories. FlexiCapture supports a range of export destinations including XML, ODBC, Microsoft Office SharePoint and other business applications.
